Integrated

PatraWin® features comprehensive search functions and you can create virtually any kind of report you wish. The system is very easy to customise without having to replace existing item, customer or search numbers or specific designations.

The fully integrated accounts module includes functions for invoicing, internal time reporting and financial history of both items and clients. Invoices can be generated automatically or manually and simply exported to in-house accounts systems. PatraWin® can communicate and import and export data to and from several other applications such as: Word, Excel, Outlook, Acrobat or as XML files to e.g. epoline®.

Simple document processing

Well-structured document processing enables you to store various types of documentation in a separate database: text files, spreadsheets, drawings, scanned documents and email. There is a direct link between document and item or client. Key word searches can be made on documents stored in this way, including scanned documents.

Easy to install

For such a comprehensive application, PatraWin® is very quick to install and has a very short turn around time from order to being fully operational. Which reduces your start-up costs in terms of consultant fees etc. While implementation times can vary depending on your requirements and routines, as a rule, these are significantly shorter than rival tools.

Long-term investment

New IPR software is an investment you should be able to live and grow with for a number of years. Which is why PatraWin® has been developed in the standardised Microsoft®.NET environment. Which means we can provide a long-term guarantee of compatibility with external structures and other systems.
